HOP!

Design by Alessandra Bertini

Where simplicity meets distinction.

A name that is already a gesture: HOP!
An invitation to rise, to take a leap toward something more.

Hop was conceived with the idea of transforming a simple tap into a distinctive design statement. A product that expresses personality while remaining true to pure, essential forms. Clean lines, balanced proportions, and a bold design detail that confidently breaks the pattern.

The concept of the “leap” takes shape in the lever: anchored beyond the midpoint of the rotation control, it creates a distinctive step. A deliberate, carefully engineered feature that becomes the collection’s signature and defining element.

Slim and essential, Hop combines formal precision with a sense of dynamism. An object that does not simply complete the bathroom space, but defines it.

ALESSANDRA BERTINI

Architect and designer, my professional profile is defined by a set of complementary and integrated competencies.

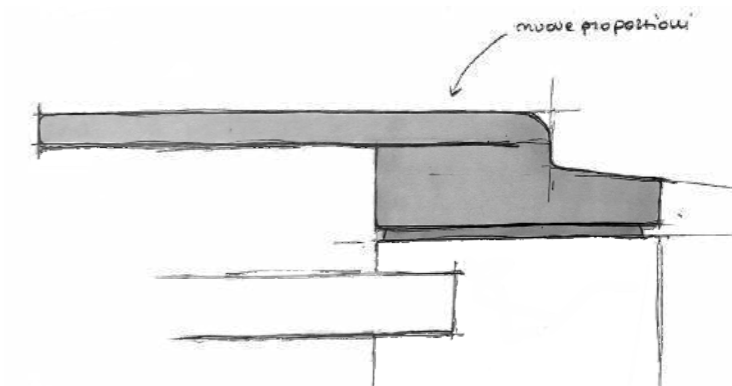

From an early age, I developed a strong passion for design, which led me to pursue an academic path culminating in a Master’s Degree in Architecture from the University of Florence, awarded with highest honors, followed by professional licensure.

In 2006, I co-founded Phicubo. In 2021, a particularly significant project represented a pivotal moment in my career, prompting me to establish an independent design practice and to found Boom Studio, dedicated to architectural design.

My design methodology is grounded in a measured balance between creativity, emotional sensitivity, and technical rigor, always supported by a thoughtful and informed dialogue with the client.

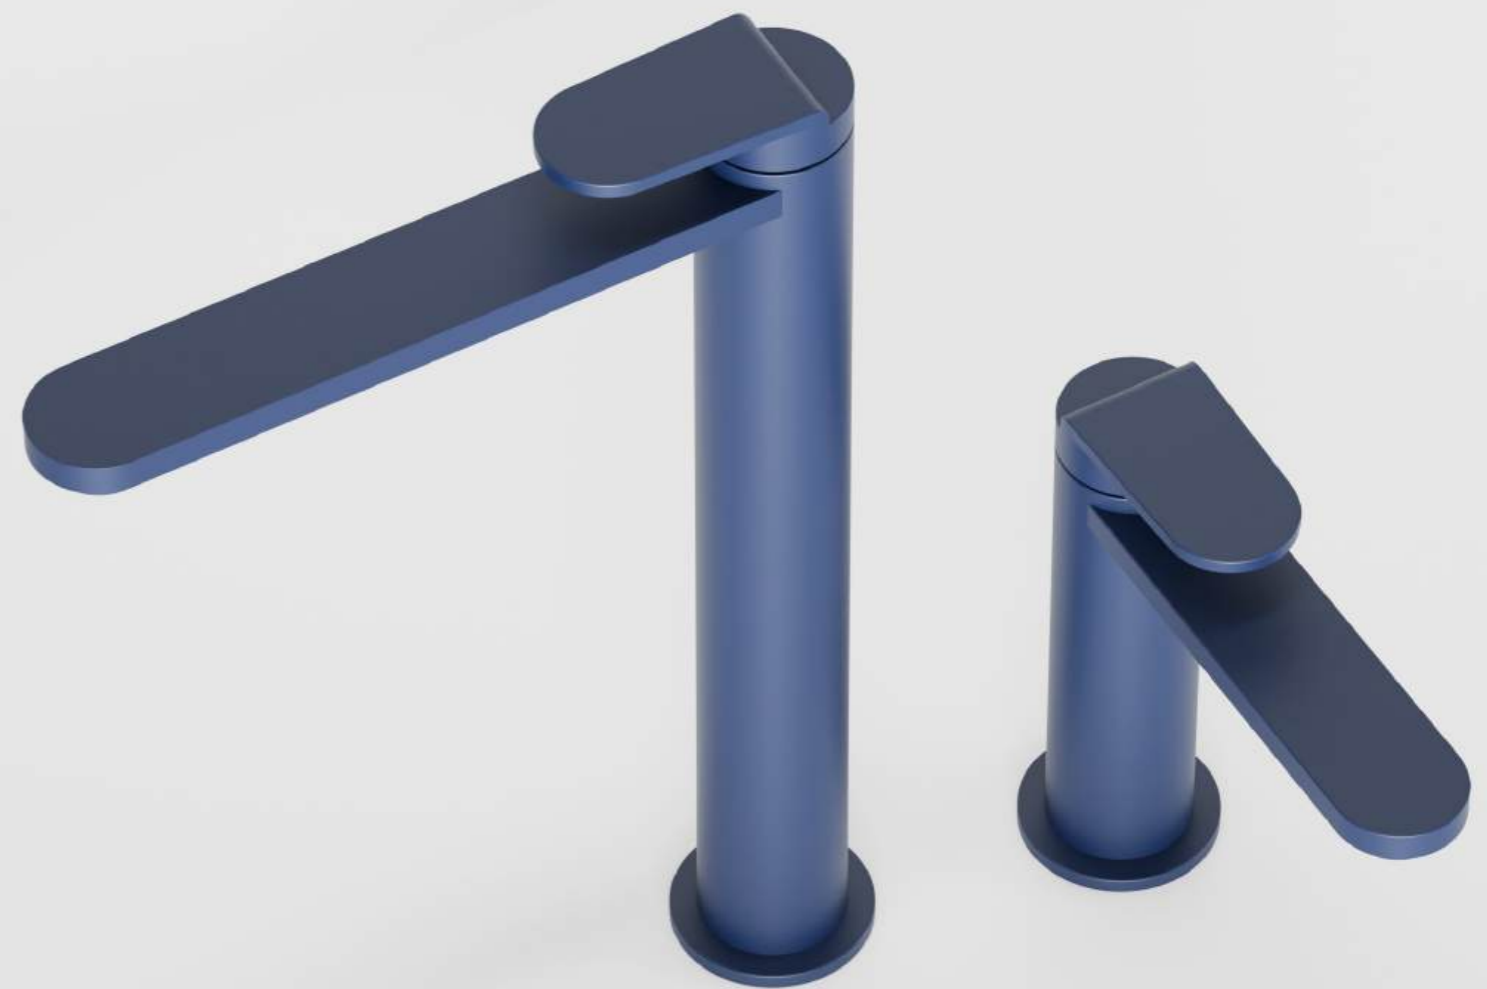

I approach each project as a narrative process an opportunity to translate memory and identity into spatial form. Humor and lightness are consciously employed as drivers of innovation, while functionality and sustainability remain central to every intervention.

My concepts originate from emotional insights, carefully observed details, and meaningful memories, evolving into spaces that are essential, welcoming, and enduring.
